Eateries in and around SJU

Nothing stays long as the reminiscence of good food and memories made around it. Eateries in and around the University is where students spend the best of their times. Students' preferred outlets extend beyond food. It's about tearing through buttered naan in internal joy and external frustration over some deadline, and then dragging yourself back in a well-deserved food coma. It's also a place for socialisation, for bonding over coffee or tea preferences, or as a go-to meal spot.
